

Ethics Complaint Guidelines

Many difficulties leading to ethics complaints can result from misunderstandings or miscommunication. Before filing a complaint, therefore, it is recommended that you speak with the member and/or the managing- or principal broker of their firm as differences can often be resolved outside the formal ethics enforcement process.

If you do wish to file an ethics complaint, you will need to complete the attached Ethics Complaint Form citing the Article[s] of the Code of Ethics you believe might have been violated and attach a narrative and/or chronological summary of the events, circumstances and facts in the matter along with copies of any documentation you feel will support your complaint. Ethics complaints must be filed with the Association within 180 days of the time the complainant knew—or reasonably should have known—that potential unethical conduct took place.

You may submit your complaint to RAR:

- by mail or in person to the Richmond Association of REALTORS®, 8975 Three Chopt Road, Richmond, VA 23229, ATTN: Professional Standards
- by email to prostandards@RARealtors.com
- by fax to 804-422-5055

When your complaint is received, it and all related case materials will be forwarded to the Grievance Committee for their review. The Committee's responsibility is to determine whether the complaint has sufficient merit for further consideration, i.e. whether, if the allegations were accepted at face value, the complaint contains a possible violation of any Article[s] of the Code. If the Committee rules that there is a possibility that a violation occurred, they will forward the matter to the Professional Standards Committee for a hearing which you will be expected to attend to present your case. The entire process typically takes 2-3 months, allowing for time for review by the Grievance Committee, soliciting and receiving responses, proper notification and scheduling of a hearing.

The Richmond Association of REALTORS® cannot require any party to pay monetary damages to parties filing ethics complaints and cannot award "punitive damages" for violations of the Code of Ethics, nor can it suspend or revoke a real estate professional's license; complainants wishing to pursue these types of remedies should do so through the legal system or the appropriate licensing authority or regulatory- or administrative agency. The primary emphasis of discipline for ethical lapses is educational—to create a heightened awareness of and appreciation for the duties that the Code imposes.
